Now we hope Brussels sprouts.

Why, of course, Harriet, Mrs. Wilson is expected home, too.

The luxury tax will undoubtedly put enough "kick" into soft drinks.

No matter what happens now in Russia—it will be an improvement.

Haddam Baad is the name of a Turkish statesman. Most of 'em do.

The man who has to look down a flour barrel these days knows its unloaded.

It won't be long now before you can fly over and Pekin China for the afternoon when you feel "ungweed."

An exchange says, "Villa Takes Chihuahua." It's a wonder they can not get him to take just a little prussic acid.

Just to add to Germany's joy, it is suggested that a bone-dry clause be inserted to take effect July 1. It would help some.

Now comes Dr. Wiley who says that half-percent beer will produce a jag. Wonder if it would make a jackrabbit spit into a bulldog's face?

Congress is now after that idiotic "daylight saving" law, which was introduced by Doc. Garfield while gumming up the distribution of coal.

President Wilson's advocacy of the repeal of the war-time dry law on the eve of his return convinces one that he intends coming back to stay.

The American delegates to the peace conference says the treaty is not to be given out. Probably the information of its contents received by private parties was only copies.

Lieutenant Commander A. C. Reed went over the pond in an NC in 26 hours and 45 minutes actual flying time, a distance of 2,150 miles. First blood for the American flying corps.

It hath the appearance that Adj. Gen. Harris has established a neat little principality of his own, and if Governor Campbell will keep on going out of the state often, our acting governors will do the rest.

Senator Ashurst and Congressman Hayden have gone on record as against the repeal of the war-time prohibition law. It now only remains for Senator Smith of Kentucky and sometimes of Arizona, to announce himself on the subject.

A person who can not spend a most enjoyable three months' vacation at Flagstaff during the summer is in poor health indeed. Aside from the most enjoyable summer climate in the world, they would hardly be able to cover all the points of interest.

The "peyote bean" is the latest intoxicating trouble to disturb the Indian, so it is reported by a missionary. About the only solution of the problem we can see is to prevent the raising or producing of anything that contains or from which alcohol can be made.

When the Republicans organized the senate they put a real farmer—Gronna, of North Dakota—at the head of the agricultural committee. When the Republicans organize a cabinet in March, 1921, they will put a real farmer at the head of the Department of Agriculture.

"Private councils of statesmen will no longer determine the destinies of nations."—Woodrow Wilson. Also: "The day of secret councils is past because the people are in the saddle."—Woodrow Wilson. How much do the people of the United States know of what he has been doing the past five or six months?

When the Bolshevik movement was threatened in Winnipeg, 4,000 returned soldiers and sailors volunteered to help the mayor of the city. The same spirit prevails among the returned soldiers and sailors of America. They have spent too much time, money and blood to allow this element to start anything and get away with it.

One of the heroes that this country will never forget and the Huns will have cause to remember for years to come is Sergeant Alvin C. York, a Tennessee mountaineer. It would appear from his official record that he was no conscientious objector. His record is 30 Germans killed with his rifle, 132 captured and 32 machine guns put out of action.

Former Governor Hunt lost his suit against the state to collect additional salary, the supreme court deciding that he was not entitled to the raise which was made during his term of office. Of course, the law meant that no elective officer could have his pay increased during his term of office, but George W. P. needed the money. However, the next legislature can pass a "relief" bill.

THAT "PLAIN PEOPLE" STUFF

President Wilson continually talks about his "special understanding and appreciation" of the "workers" and the "plain people." Where did he learn so much about them? He was either a college student or professor continuously from 1874, when he entered Davidson College as a student, until he left Princeton University to become governor of New Jersey, excepting two years he spent in an unsuccessful effort to acquire a law practice at Atlanta, Ga. Since 1902 he has been continuously a politician and office holder. Before he became a candidate for office he had pronounced views about labor unions, and unprofitable servants, and ignorant "crews" from the south of Europe, which did not indicate that he was lying awake nights worrying over the welfare of the proletariat. He has been surrounded by wealth and social and educational exclusiveness all his life. He is the most secluded and exclusive president the American people have ever experienced.

Yet Mr. Wilson continually utters patronizing phrases about "the humbler classes" and "the simple firesides," and the "plain jackets," as if he had been a rail splitter or blacksmith or something all his life. The truth is that the only way to understand the common or garden variety of folks is to be one of them and to live with them. Mr. Wilson, with all his affectation of undying love for the proletariat, knows only one thing about those he calls "the plain people" and that is that in this country they have a lot of votes. This is the plain, unvarnished truth of the matter, and the country is really getting rather fatigued with this continuous flow of college rhetoric about the "common people."

SAYS DRUG EVIL GROWING

Dr. Ernest S. Bishop, author of a forthcoming book on "The Drug Evil," says that there are more people addicted to the drug habit than there are afflicted with tuberculosis in the United States, and that it is a growing evil rather than decreasing. Many contract the habit during war, as was shown at the end of both the Civil War and the Spanish-American War. He believes that the habit is in most cases unconsciously contracted and that it affects all classes, and that the vicious element who contract the habit willfully are greatly outnumbered by ministers, lawyers, judges, professional men and others. It is not a pleasant condition to contemplate and he advocates a nation-wide movement to properly handle the disease, as he terms it.

ALL IN A LUMP

Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, has introduced a bill which will authorize the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance to pay to beneficiaries of soldiers the amounts due them in a lump sum, at the election of said beneficiaries. Under the present law payments can be made only in installments. The original purpose was to provide benefits over a considerable period and to protect those who might be tempted to waste their money if paid to them in a lump sum. Senator Curtis' bill is designed to afford relief to those who could make better use of the money if they had it in a lump-sum available for investment.

TO THE ILLUSTRIOUS DEAD

A bill has been introduced by Senator Selden P. Spencer, of Missouri, to appropriate $500,000 for the purchase and maintenance of a cemetery in France in the name of the United States for the interment of the bodies of American officers and men who lost their lives in connection with the European war. This bill, if enacted into law, would not interfere with the return to the United States of the remains of any man whose nearest relatives may desire such return.

HURRY IT UP

A resolution has been introduced by Representative Harry C. Woodyard, of West Virginia, directing immediate return to this country of the soldiers of the United States now in Europe and the immediate demobilization of soldiers now in service outside of the regular army. The resolution is in the hands of the house committee on military affairs. It is Mr. Woodyard's desire to have the men returned as rapidly as possible to civil life.

WE DON'T WANT 'EM

Senator Wesley L. Jones, of the state of Washington, has introduced a bill to provide for the deportation of aliens who had declared their intention to become citizens of the United States but who withdrew such declaration with the object of escaping military service. His bill also provides that any such alien who shall have left the United States shall be excluded therefrom hereafter.

The Sun is exceptionally proud of the fact that its advertisers get results and are willing to tell about it. As a matter of fact The Sun now reaches the people all over the northern part of Arizona and is the best advertising medium that can possibly be used, its columns for the past months show what the prosperous business men think of it, and they have come to the conclusion after a fair trial that it is the best investment they can make, directly and indirectly. It is difficult to make The Sun all we wish to, but just watch us grow; and another thing to feel proud of is in just watching our advertisers grow.

Secretary Burleson has issued an order handing back all telephone and telegraph lines to their private owners. Sec. Burleson claims he did so because it was so recommended by President Wilson. Some time ago he said he would turn them back as soon as Congress could arrange for it. This turn back was not in the least—no, indeed—accelerated by the threatened strike of operatives. Neither does one drop a hot potato because it is too warm. The Republican Congress may now have the pleasure of straightening out the tangle.

AMERICAN FORESTERS FAVOR MORE FORESTRY FOR GREAT SOUTHWEST

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 9.—The first move made in the Southwest in the interest of the nation-wide campaign for vastly enlarged forest production and the application of the forestry principles to all forest land was inaugurated here with a meeting of the southwestern section of the Society of American Foresters.

The foresters advocated the immediate extension of state and government regulatory powers in forestry to all lands in the United States that shall be classified as primarily valuable for timber culture. It was pointed out that with destructive methods of logging in effect on the overwhelming bulk of all forest lands throughout the nation, with recurrent fires devastating huge areas and rendering them sterile for decades, with little effort to provide for a future timber crop except on state and national forests and the timber lands of a few of the more progressive private owners, the country is facing in the near future a serious shortage of lumber.

With this situation in mind, the society voted unanimously in favor of the following forestry program for Arizona and New Mexico.

(1) The passage of adequate state fire laws as an aid in the prevention of the annual forest fire devastation, such laws to take the form of fire-law enforcement by existing state, county, and municipal officials and the punishment of persons who willfully or negligently start forest fires.

(2) Fire cooperation with owners of large private timber holdings.

(3) Cooperation with states and private owners in the cutting of timber according to the principles of forestry, technical assistance to be furnished by the federal government.

(4) The passage of adequate timberland tax laws, with a tax on the land as real estate and another tax on the timber itself, but collected only when the timber is cut or harvested. It was pointed out that all existing tax laws regard timber as a part of the real estate itself, instead of as a crop; that the timber is taxed continuously, although it takes two centuries in the Southwest for Western yellow pine to grow from the seed to the mature tree ready for cutting; and that it is therefore unprofitable for private owners to hold young timber for future cutting.

(5) The acquisition of private timber holdings by the federal government by purchase, with provision for a financial return to the states at least equal to the present returns from taxation.

Committees were appointed to work out the detailed program.

YOUNG MASTER OF FINESSE

They were entertaining the minister at dinner, and after dessert little Johnny said:

"Won't you take another piece of pie?"

The minister laughed.

"Well, Johnny," he said, "since you are so polite, I will have another."

"Good!" said Johnny. "Now, ma, remember your promise. You said if you had to cut into the second pie, I could have another piece!"

LOADED

"Last night a dozen cars went by while I waited and I couldn't get on board one of them."

"That so, old man? What was the trouble?"

"Too full."

"The deuce you were! Where did you get it?"

WORLD CONVENTION OF VETERANS OF GREAT WAR PROPOSED BY CANADIANS

WINNIPEG, Man., June 10.—Great War Veterans Associations of Canada are in communication with like associations in other parts of the British dominion concerning a world convention next year in South Africa, which is regarded as the most central meeting place in the empire.

It is understood an international association of war veterans is being considered. Statements have been made that in view of the fact that soldier sacrifices made victory possible the soldiers should formally outline their views on soldier relief reconstruction, peace conditions, and other measures.

The National Union of Mutilated and Restored Soldiers of France has exchanged greetings with the Dominion Great War Veterans Associations. The union is expected to send delegates to the proposed world convention of soldiers who fought for the British empire. It is possible that the other nations also will be invited.

Little Arthur: "Say, father, is it true that nature never wastes anything?"

Father: "Yes, Arthur; I guess it is true."

Little Arthur: "Then, what's the good of a cow having two horns when she can't even blow one?"

If a man is wise he will never start a fight unless he has enough friends present to interfere if he gets the worst of it.

Only One Corn Peeler, "Gets-It"

Stop Corn Pains; See Corn Peel Off.

It is just when a corn hurts that you want to feel surest about getting rid of it. Why take chances of keeping the corn and having the pain grow worse? You'll use "Gets-It."

The Only Peel-Off Way Is "Gets-It."

It's anyhow, sooner or later, might as well use it sooner. Then you are absolutely sure that the corn will loosen from your toe so that you can peel the whole thing off painlessly with your fingers, in one complete piece—just like peeling a banana. It takes a second or two to apply "Gets-It." There's no fussing or putting. Corn-pains will vanish—that'll keep you sweet while the "Gets-It" does the rest. Nothing new for corns has been discovered since "Gets-It" was born. Follow the judgment of the millions; use "Gets-It" and be sure to be corn and pain free! You'll say it's magic. "Gets-It," the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. MFD by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.
